NUMBER 20

Welcome Visitors

At last it is our privilege to extend to you the heartiest of all greetings: Welcome to St. Pats. We have waited impatiently, and longed for this day since the sound of your laughter and the brightness of your smiles faded away into echoes and memories.

Your coming is the event of the year. Stanford has its Tournament of Roses, New Orleans, its Mardi Gras, Paris achieves its whoopee days and Rolla has St. Pats. From experience, we know what mystic changes your presence brings about in the village, and what happiness you cause in us. Without you, our celebration could not be a success. Therefore we appreciate you, our guests, and we hope to please you.

We have worked hard to prepare a celebration worthy of your visit. If you have not been here before, we believe you will take pleasure in participating in a party such as you have never seen before. To those who have participated in previous celebration, we promise more happiness than ever.

That your sojourn here will be filled with fun, frolic, and the utmost in enjoyment that will remain in your memory forever, is our sincere wish.

Again we say, welcome, happy days, and here's looking at you!

At Tuesday Board Meeting

John Moll Chosen St. Pat; To Reign Over Annual Activities

John Moll has been chosen to reign over the 1969 St. Pat's celebration as St. Pat by vote of the St. Pat Board. John has all the qualities of a true St. Pat and will surely do an excellent job during the festivities. His abilities are obviously recognized by his fellow Board members who elected him. A special Board meeting was held Tuesday night to elect St. Pat. John is a senior majoring in Civil Engineering and is from St. Louis, Mo. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity for which he was previously secretary. Following tradition St. Pat is once more President of the Board. The Board is a UMR campus organization whose sole Loyal Irishmen will be Governor Warren E. Hearnes and two of his colonels, Gerald H. Lowther and H. P. Montgomery, both of Springfield; University of Missouri President John C. Weaver; Homer Tucker, Rolla civic leader; and Bob Wolf, UMR professor.

The Honorary Knights will be honored at a dinner at 6 p.m. at the Carney Manor and will receive their special St. Pat's medallions at the knighting ceremony at the coronation ball (8:00 in the Rolla National Guard Armory).

The knighting ceremony will be like the medieval ceremony where the dignipurpose is to promote the idea of St. Pat at Rolla. Their job is to make this weekend the best weekend of the year for the Miners.

On campus John is a member of several organizations. In the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE) he has been treasurer and is presently president. He is also a member of the M-Club, Theta Tau, and NSPE. John has also been a member of the varsity football team on which he has lettered for three years.

As St. Pat of 1969 John is surely capable of guaranteeing a memorable weekend. With the help of his Board St. Pat promises a great time for all.

The Cover...

St. Patrick's Stay at Rolla To Feature Full Line of Fun

The start of the St. Pat's celebration officially began today after the arrival of St. Patrick. He was heartily welcomed by the St. Pat's Board and immediately declared that all festivities should begin. He looked exceptionally well after the long journey from Ireland and was very eager to meet his old Miner friends and also many of the new students serving him for the first time. This afternoon St. Patrick will be at Lions Park to judge the annual contests which include shillalagh and beard contests. If you have yet to see our patron saint, be sure to be at Lions Park this afternoon.

Tonight St. Patrick will be at the National Guard Armory for the coronation of his Queen of Love and Beauty. Twenty-nine lovely girls, representing fraternities and eating clubs, will be trying for this coveted title. The coronation will start at 8:00 o'clock. St. Patrick will also have the honor of dubbing six dignitaries as Honorary Knights of the Order of St. Patrick. Providing music for this coronation will be the Drifters. Immediately following the coronation and knighting ceremony there will be a dance featuring the well-known Box-tops and the Flippers.

Saturday morning St. Patrick will be up bright and early to lead the parade through the streets of Rolla. Preceding the parade will be the traditional painting of a green stripe down Rolla Street. The parade will then start at 10:00 o'clock. The theme of this year's parade is "Happiness Is. . ."

Saturday afternoon St. Pat will observe the official knighting ceremony which is to be held at the new Jackling football field. One representative from each fraternity and eating club is selected to be honored as a Knight of Saint Patrick. The knighting ceremony consists of being dumped into a large vat of foreign elements. After this, the representative is officially knighted. Also at this time the winners of the shillalagh and beard contests will be announced. Right after the knighting ceremony there will be a dance on the Civil Engineering parking lot featuring the Dalton Gang.

Thus with today starting an action-packed weekend, we of the St. Pat's Board hope these next few days will be filled with fun, frolic, and the utmost in enjoyment that will remain in your memory forever. HAPPY ST. PAT'S.

Boxtops to Provide Miner Music

Plans for this year's St. Pat's celebration are fully underway as the days until that exciting weekend grow nearer and nearer. This year the St. Pat's Board will again sponsor a dance on Friday night at the Armory for all Miners and their dates.

One of the major highlights of the entire weekend will be the coronation

"Happiness Is..." To Highlight St. Pat's Parade

Saturday morning the St. Pat's Celebration will include the greatest parade ever assembled at UMR. The board is honored to have E. K. (Toots) Schuman as the first St. Pat's parade marshal. Mr. Schuman, who will lead the parade in a 1929 Rolls Royce, was St. Pat of 1919.

The theme of this year's parade is "Happiness Is. . .," and there will be twelve floats hoping to win the first place trophy. This year the board solicited the funds to finance from the local merchants and put the money collected in the St. Pat's Parade Fund. From this fund each organization building a float was guaranteed up to $300. With this type of system the competition looks rough. It should be noted that these floats, that pass by within minutes as one watches, represent weeks of hard work and planning. The floats will be judged on workmanship, originality, animation, color scheme, and sound effects.

Also in this year's parade will be three marching bands, two of which are Bugle Corps. Budweiser's famous horses will also be in the parade. Falstaff will have a 1932 Distributor Truck from which pretzels will be thrown out during the parade. In addition honored dignitaries will ride in convertibles and three non-float entries will round out the parade.

Don't miss the St. Pat's Parade Saturday morning. This will surely be the best St. Pat's Celebration ever.

of the Queen of Love and Beauty and the Honorary Knighting Ceremony on Friday night. The Drifters will provide the music during the Coronation. From 9-1 there will be a semi-formal dance featuring the Boxtops and Flippers.

The Boxtops are a well known group which originated in Memphis where they were overnight sensations. Some of their great hit records include "The Letter," "Neon Rainbow," "Cry Like a Baby," "Choo Choo Train," "I Met Her in Church," and their newest "Sweet Cream Ladies."

Sharing the spotlight with the Boxtops will be the Flippers. They are a well known band from Lawrence, Kansas. The Board feels they will go over big with the Miners.

The Board will again feature something new for the students this year. There will be a dance on the CE parking lot Saturday afternoon immediately following the Knighting Ceremony. The Dalton Gang will provide the music.

It looks like a great weekend all around for the UMR student - DON'T MISS IT !!!

Pages, Guards Chosen

Seven Chosen to Aid St. Pat

In addition to St. Pat himself others have been appointed to help with the duties of the annual St. Pat's Day celebration. The guards, pages, and herald are some of those unrecognized heroes.

The four guards are John D. Krueger, Frank Winfield, Eric D. Dunning and David Ripley.

Guard John Krueger who makes his hometown in Monett, Mo. is a senior majoring in Mechanical Engineering. John is a member of Beta Sigma Psi of which he has been athletic manager, secretary, sergeant-at-arms, and is presently serving as President. John is also the treasurer of St. Pat's Board, a member of Theta Tau, and is pledging Blue Key.

Also working as a guard this year is Frank Winfield. Hailing from Kansas City, Frank is a senior majoring in C. E. His outside activities include varsity football, for which he has lettered three years and M-Club. Frank is presently President of Alpha Phi Alpha and has also held the office of vice-president and secretary.

senior enrolled in Engineering Management. Eric has been vice-president.

Another guard is David Ripley. David is a senior in Mechanical Engineering and a member of SAE. He represents Prospector's Club. The last guard is Eric D. Dunning, who claims St. Louis as his hometown. Eric is a sergeant-at-arms, secretary, treasurer and rush chairman of Tau Kappa Epsilon. Presently he is serving as pledge trainer. Eric is a member of Alpha Phi Omega, Rugby Club, the Student Union Board committee, and is pledging Theta Tau.

Hard Work, Time Given By UMR St. Pat's Board

The 1968-69 St. Pat's Board.

One of the two pages this year is Richard Tuetken from Pana, Illinois. Rich is a senior in Mechanical Engineering. He is also secretary of the St. Pat's Board, President of Tau Kappa Epsilon, vice-president of AIAA, a Theta Tau pledge, and a member of ASCE.

Also serving as page this year is Kenneth D. Blankenship. Ken is a senior majoring in metallurgy and is from Lebanon, Mo. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, AFS, and the Metallurgy Society.

This year's herald will be John Oeffner who makes his home in Rolla, Mo. John is a Chemical Engineering senior and a member of AIChE, Student Council, and Alpha Chi Sigma for which he was president in the fall '68.

With all these fine men carrying out their duties this should be a well-remembered St. Pat's celebration.

Cellar Door To Present Thyme & Yu

Sharon Sackewitz and Troy Hill, freshmen from Baker University at Baldwin, Kansas, are a new "Thyme & Yu" entertaining group with a thoughtful outlook on life.

"We copy no one, we strive for our own image," said Sharon. Even though they like Bob Dylan, they feel they must stylize their own songs.

Together they have examined singers who have succeeded and those who have failed. As a result Sharon said, "The only people that really make it write their own music." The girls write their own music and want others to think of "Thyme & Yu" when they sing.

Sharon plays the guitar and both girls sing. They write their music co-operatively although Troy remarked, "We have a little saying, 'There is no Peace.' I came from classes recently and Sharon had written a song 'There is no Peace.'"

The girls find no reason to dress alike when they sing. They believe they are individuals and want to be just that. "We dress as we feel at that minute; we don't want people to think about our dress, but our music." "We want to make people think to create a mood," said Troy.

The Cellar Door will also feature excellent local talent including Warren Rutledge, Judy Hall, Bruce Edmonds, and the Baptist Student Union quartet along with an outstanding group from St. Louis, the "Two-By-Fours."

The Cellar Door is located in the Episcopal Parish House, 10th and Main Streets in Rolla, and will be open from 9:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights, March 14 and 15, 1969. It is sponsored by the campus ministries of the Baptist, Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, and UCCF communions.

UMR, St. Pat's Traditions Have Start In Old Irish History and Thought

By LARRY BOZZAY

The St. Pat's Celebration is symbolic with the University of Missouri - Rolla. This year the Miners will be celebrating the annual event for the sixty-first time. Unlike other traditions that gradually fade away, the St. Pat's traditions seem to be getting stronger as the years roll by. The actual traditions themselves took many years to form. The early celebrations were simple, but they soon developed into complexity.

St. Pat's at UMR really had its beginnings in 1907, for that is when the whole idea really hatched. The University of Missouri at Columbia was celebrating its fourth St. Pat's Day festival. They extended an invitation to the Missouri School of Mines to send a representative to Columbia for the holiday. The Miners thought it was such a good idea that they decided to celebrate their own St. Pat's. On March 16, 1908 under cover of darkness a group of students began decorating the exterior of Norwood Hall for the coming of the Saint. They were forced to creep around in the dark because the faculty was opposed to the idea of the celebration since its inception. In fact they were unwilling to declare a holiday on March 17. Somehow the school united, and all joined in on the mass walkout. Every student cut his classes on March 17, 1908 to go down to old Frisco station and await the arrival of the Patron Saint of Engineers, St. Patrick. And arrive he did — clad in the now famous bishop's mitre, green robes, and sandals. With beard flowing, George Menefee delivered the first St. Pat's day speech.

This first celebration was a modest one to say the least. It was more of a prank on the part of the student body than the beginning of a tradition. None of them could have possibly guessed that out of their humble attempt to honor St. Patrick would develop a celebration to equal the proportions of our modern day St. Pat's.

However, things mushroomed after that first year. By the following year a new twist was added to the day's events. St. Pat discovered the fabled Blarney Stone. This stone has a legend all its own. It seems that a construction crew unearthed the stone near Dublin, Ireland in 1907. When its moss covering was scraped away the men discovered the inscription, but it was written in a style unfamiliar to any of the men. The foreman felt an irresistible compulsion to unlock the mystery of the coded message, so he took the stone to Dublin where he hoped the archeologists could decipher the meaning of the symbols. Along the way to Dublin he met many travelers. Upon meeting a traveller he was overcome by an eerie sensation and he experienced an overwhelming desire to relate a tale about the weird stone. As he began to speak to a stranger on the road the words veritably surged out of his mouth and he was powerless to control his own tongue. The unearthly power of the blarney stone had rendered him helpless. He told each stranger he met a different and increasingly more amazing than the last. Each stranger, in turn, expressed a strong desire to touch the stone. Upon contact with the stone the strangers, too, experienced the phenomenon of the loss of control over their vocal chords. They began spewing forth all sorts of blarney. It wasn't very long before every man, woman, and child had heard the fantastic tales of the blarney stone. Soon the whole world knew of the curious Irish stone.

As so often is the case with such priceless, national objects the blarney stone suddenly disappeared in 1909. This was no small mystery. Everyone was thoroughly baffled and confused. The gentle, mild-mannered people of Erin were up in arms. The Scotland Yard was called in to investigate the case, which just goes to show how desperate the Irish were. And where should the blarney stone be discovered? Tucked away in some little niche high in the Himalayas in that land of mystery, Tibet? At the bottom of the Dead Sea in the very cradle of civilization, Jordan? Or perhaps hidden beneath the earth's crust in the majestic beauty of some secret cavern? No? Would you believe in front of a pool hall in downtown Rolla, Missouri? Fate had sent the elusive blarney stone to the Miners at MSM. By a coincidence (or was it really just a coincidence?) it was discovered there on March 17, 1909 by none other than St. Patrick himself. Every year the blarney stone disappears, and every year the great saint locates it. Using all of his skills as an engineer St. Pat constructs a transit out of a whiskey bottle and a forked stick. With this crude instrument he miraculously finds the stone every year.

Another tradition that is observed during St. Pat's is the carrying of shillalabs by the freshmen. 1910 marks the beginning of this custom. Then, as now, the freshmen were duty-bound to make the campus safe for the hallowed presence of our patron saint. It was thought St. Patrick and his followers originally used shillalabs to rid the emerald isle of snakes. However, this was not the case.

It seems that reports of snakes, better known as sightings of U. C. O., i. e., unidentified crawling object, were observed most often during holidays, on festival days, at Irish wakes, and in or near every local pub. The descriptions of the snakes varied considerably. For instance, the shape was described by some to be streamlined or hotdog shaped, while others maintained that the snakes were almost balloon shaped. The color of the eyes was described as green by some, while some insisted that one eye flashed bright red and the other eye sparkled brilliant blue. The color of the body ranged from a silvery hue to an iridescent purple. Some observers went so far as to state that they saw little green men coming out of the snakes. Naturally St. Patrick, being a conservative engineer, was just a bit skeptical. At a time when the sightings were at an all-time high (and so were the Irish) St. Patrick was invited to join a group of the more civic-minded sons of Erin and to discuss the current snake issue. Naturally the government had been trying to hush up the entire issue, so it was up to the citizens to cope with the problem. St. Patrick lived with the citizens one night. The meal consisted of a barrel of whiskey, a leg of lamb, and two dogs. Don't be alarmed. The dogs were merely used to eat the leg of lamb. As the evening progressed St. Patrick began to realize the severity of the issue as he too began seeing snakes . . . and pink elephants, and dinosaurs, and . . .

Well, being a man of action St. Patrick set out to find a solution to the problem. It didn't take the old saint long to concoct a potion which when induced into the bloodstream caused semi-paralysis of the thinking faculties of the human mind. He called his wonderful elixir "pretty juice." Thanks to St. Patrick and his pretty juice Ireland has been free from the curse of the snakes ever since. Being the loyal sons of UMR that the Miners have proven themselves to be in the past, you can be rest assured that they will put up a stiff (boy, will it be stiff) line of defense against the hordes of snakes that are reported to attack the fair city of Rolla this St. Pat's.

Although St. Pat's is a weekend of tradition there have certainly been deviations from the traditions. For instance there was the time in 1966 when a particular candidate for the knighting ceremony failed to make his appearance. However, with typical Miner ingenuity the Knights quickly found a substitute. It seems that a hapless

St. Pat's Parade Biggest Ever

Clydesdales to Be Parade Feature

Featured in this year's St. Pat's Parade will be the world famous Budweiser Clydesdales. They will arrive in town Saturday morning for the parade which begins at 10:00 a.m. After which they will be on show at the ROTC Drill Field.

Anheuser-Busch used beautiful draft horses to pull its brewery wagons up until the time of prohibition. The company's horses were well known and admired by everyone who saw them.

With the beginning of prohibition, the company had to close its stables.

As soon as the repeal of prohibition became a certainty, August A. Busch, Jr., purchased a team of Clydesdales and had them trained secretly as a surprise for his father, August A. Busch, Sr.

The day after prohibition was repealed in 1933, August, Jr., telling his father he wanted to show him a new car, took his father to the street. There stood the Clydesdale hitch, and as can be imagined, August, Sr., was overcome with joy and nostalgia.

Of course, trucks were in use then to deliver the company's products, but the Budweiser Champion Eight-Horse Hitch rapidly grew in popularity.

Today, the Budweiser Clydesdales are almost a company trademark.

Since the appearance of the first hitch, the Budweiser Champion Clydesdales have made people gasp in big cities and small towns — from coast to coast. The thunder of their hooves on the pavement attracts attention more than a motor horn. Their immense size makes average horses appear as dwarves by comparison. Their brass-trimmed, 3½-ton, wagon which the team pulls rumbles over the street like thunder.

Hundreds of thousands of persons all over the United States have seen these beautiful Clydesdales. They have captured one trophy after another in horse shows throughout the United States. One of the things that never fails to thrill spectators is the ease and agility with which these huge animals move about despite their size and weight of approximately a ton each. When giving an exhibition drive at horse shows and fairs, they pull their heavy wagon around in a series of breath-taking maneuvers. Another thing that amazes spectators is the intelligence with which the Clydesdales respond to directions. The driver holds four reins laced through his fingers on each hand, thereby giving him individual control of each horse. Learning to drive the team requires long training.

Scotch by ancestry, some Clydesdales for the Budweiser hitch are purchased in Scotland and Canada. They are usually three to four years old when purchased. When it appeared that the breed might become extinct, the company established a Clydesdale breeding farm to assure replacements for the Budweiser hitch.

People often wonder if there is any danger of these Clydesdales getting out of hand, because of their immense size and the fact that the lead pair is so far from the driver's seat. The driver has no trouble at all guiding them with the reins, and their behavior, even in the thickest traffic, has been perfect. Fire sirens can blow all around them and while they show annoyance at the commotion by perking up their ears and exhibiting a little nervousness, they never once have tried to bolt, kick, or plunge. They are extremely tractable and very gentle.

The Budweiser Champion Clydesdales are the most widely-traveled horses in the United States. The Caravans are transported in three large, specially built vans, 40' long and 8' wide. In the horse vans, all stalls face forward and are so arranged that they cannot be pushed off their balance. Another van is used for the huge brass-trimmed wagon, and the portable stalls and other miscellaneous equipment. The average mileage traveled by the Caravan in a year is approximately 20,000 miles. When the horses hear the harness being packed and other preparations for a journey, they show eagerness to get going. They actually love traveling.

The harness for one eight-horse team costs $10,000, and is, of course, entirely handmade. The average weight of these Clydesdales is 2,000

The world renowned Clydesdale will join the St. Pat's festivities when they parade through Rolla on Saturday morning. This is one of the many exciting participants in the St. Pat's parade.

Taste the golden age of Schlitz

120 years ago, it took Joseph Schlitz months to brew and age the first golden mellow drop of Schlitz. It still takes us months to brew and age Schlitz. The long, careful, golden age of Schlitz is what makes it America's choicest premium beer. Once you taste our golden age, you'll know why we say:

"When you're out of Schlitz, you're out of beer."

pounds each. The average age is 8 years. The average height 18 hands. (A hand is four inches.)

Their shoes are all handmade by our horseshoer. It requires a piece of steel 22" x 1½" x ½" to make one shoe. When finished each shoe weighs 4¾ pounds.

The Clydesdales are exhibited at various horse shows and fairs throughout the United States.

St. Louis is their home city, and while there, they are kept in the stables at the brewery.

Each Caravan has a personnel of six: driver, assistant driver, and four chauffeur grooms (they take care of the harness). Sleeping quarters for the men are provided in front of the trailers; two or three men stay with the horses at all times — and some of our men have been doing this for many years.

The Dalmation mascot became a part of the Clydesdale hitch in 1953. On parade, the dog usually rides atop the wagon on the seat with the driver.

LARRY CARR

The men of Sigma Phi Epsilon are proud to present their fattest, and most deserving brother, Larry Carr, for the distinction of knighthood in St. Pat's honorary court.

Larry has been very active during his years in Rolla. When not down at Top Hat or Blue Jay's, Larry plays intramural football, track, and cross-country. He has served as social chairman, senior marshal, and scholarship chairman. Larry is also a member of Alpha Phi Omega, AIAA, and ASH-RAE.

Truly no brother in the house could better represent the spirit of a St. Pat Knight than Sig Ep's biggest "ZERO."

A "Knight of St. Pat" kisses the Blarney Stone during the Knighting Ceremony. This is one of the many hallowed traditions at UMR.

In order that the chivalry of knighthood may be perpetuated, we the brothers of Pi Kappa Phi, in keeping with the long established customs of chivalry inherent in our southern origin, proudly present, as our candidate for knighthood, Richard Wayne Ursch.

Rich, a junior in Electrical Engineering from St. Louis, is a member of Alpha Phi Omega and is our Student Council Representative.

In the past, Rich has served his fraternity as Steward, Scholarship officer and Chaplain.

INDEPENDENTS JACK LEONE

In an effort to preserve the long-standing tradition of Saint Patrick, we, the men of the Independents, are proud to present our candidate for Knighthood, Jack Leone.

Jack, a senior in Engineering Management from Memphis, Missouri, has loyally served as a Board of Governors member for two years, our Vice-President for one year, and as our Student Council representative. He is also a member of Tech Club where he presently serves as Business Manager. Jack is known across campus for his interest in many Independent activities.

In view of his past performance, the men of GDI are sure that Jack will measure up to this honor bestowed upon him and therefore offer him into the Knighthood of Saint Patrick.

SIGMA TAU GAMMA MIKE KISSING

The brothers of Sigma Tau Gamma have elected Mike Kissing to the honor of Knighthood for St. Pat's, 1969.

Brother Kissing is a senior in Metallurgical Engineering and will be graduating in June. Mike has served Sigma Tau Gamma in many capacities, both as an officer and representative in campus organizations. He is presently serving as President of Theta Tau. A UMR varsity trackman, Mike helped the fraternity in intramural sports coaching as well as participating. We are proud to have such a worthy candidate for Knighthood.

ENGINEERS' CLUB ROBERT I. STEELE

The men of Engineers' Club are proud to present as their honorary St. Pat's Knight — Robert I. "Swoop" Steele. Bob hails from Fairview, Missouri. He transferred to UMR from Missouri Southern College of Joplin, Mo., in January 1967. He is now a graduating Senior in Electrical Engineering.

Bob is active on campus as well as in his Club. He is a member of ICC, GDI, CYR, Newman Club, and IEEE. He is now serving as President of Engineers' Club, for which he has also served as House Manager, Board of Control member, last year's "Ugly Man," and has participated in almost every intramural sport.

The reason "Swoop" has been chosen as Knight is because of his constant drive to improve his Club, and his St. Pats spirit has always been high. He served as head of the Pond Committee last year, and witnessed many dunkings. We therefore feel he is past due to receive his own dunking in the most honorable fashion of all — in the presence of St. Pat himself.

THOMAS JEFFERSON RESIDENCE HALL GLENN KMECZ

Glenn Kmecz is Thomas Jefferson Residence Hall's nominee for St. Pat's Honorary Knight. Mr. Kmecz, from St. Louis, is a senior in the Mechanical Engineering Department, where he is employed as a laboratory assistant.

Glenn is active in both the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the National Society of Professional Engineers. As a member of GDI and coach of the Thomas Jefferson football team, he has been able to enjoy two of his hobbies, drinking and sports. Glenn enjoys the out-of-doors, from mountain climbing to scouting; exactly what he scouts is well defined—slender, girlish, 36-24-36.

With due respect to our outstanding senior, the residents of Thomas Jefferson Hall proudly present Glenn Kmecz, Honorary St. Pat's Knight, 1969.

ALPHA EPSILON PI MARK JOSEPH

The men of Alpha Epsilon Pi are proud to present, Mark Joseph, as their 1969 St. Pat's Knight. Mark, a senior from Chicago, Illinois, is a Mechanical Engineering major and is currently Master of the house. He is active on campus in ASTME, College Young Democrats, and intramural sports. Mark has done a lot for AEPI and MU - Rolla, and we are anxious to see him receive this great honor.

THETA XI BRADLEY H. HORNBURG

Brother Bradley H. Hornburg is proudly presented by Theta Xi as our Knight. Brad who's home is in Silver Creek, New York, is a Civil Engineering major and he will graduate this August. He has held a number of offices in Theta Xi including house president last semester, Vice President twice and IFC representative. When it came time to choose a knight, Brad was not at all willing to admit his worthiness but the rest of the brothers were not at all ready to accept Brad's modesty.

ACACIA ROBERT E. STANFILL

Acacia Fraternity is proud to nominate Robert E. Stanfill for the honor of being a Knight of St. Patrick. Bob is a graduating senior from Poplar Bluff, Missouri, majoring in Electrical Engineering.

Bob has served his chapter well as Vice-President and Rush Chairman. Currently, he is serving as Acacia's representative to the IFC. His interests include photography and sports of all types.

Executive Vice-President and Sergeant-at-Arms. He is also in IEEE.

The Phi Kaps feel that "Schmidty" during his four years has contributed much to the House and the University and are only too happy to bestow on him the honor of being "Our Green Grabbed" for St. Pat's.

KAPPA SIGMA

CHARLES H. WENIGER

The men of Kappa Sigma are proud to present as their honorary knight Mr. Charles H. Weniger. Charlie is a senior majoring in Mechanical Engineering and has been active in many campus organizations. He is in Blue Key. He has served as secretary for Theta Tau and treasurer of M-Club for two semesters. He was a delegate to the National Convention for Theta Tau in 1966.

The main reason, however, that Charles has been selected as the knight is his service to the House. Charles has maintained a 2.26 over-all average and has helped out with intramurals in almost every sport. It is for these reasons that the brothers of Kappa Sigma feel that there could be no better man to kiss the blarney stone . . . Good luck ! !

PROSPECTOR'S CLUB

TOM TATE

The Prospectors Club proudly presents as its candidate for knighthood, Tom Tate.

Tom is a graduating senior from Chillicothe, Missouri, Master of Ceremonies of AXE, Vice President of P-Club and Major (retired) in ROTC. He expects to receive a Bachelor of Socery in Alchemy in May.

Until this weekend Tom had never had a date with a girl. He is now completely frustrated as his date for this weekend learned of the honor to be bestowed upon him, or at least all over him, and refused to come down.

SIGMA NU

MERLE FRANKLIN HILL

Merle Franklin Hill is the member of Sigma Nu Fraternity selected as our candidate to become a Knight of St. Patrick for 1969. Merle came to UMR in the fall of 1965, on a football scholarship, from Springfield, Missouri, where he attended Hillcrest High School. While at UMR Merle has played varsity football for four years, three of those years as the monsterman for the Miner defensive team. He has received the curator's award in 1965 and 1966, is a member of Theta Tau in which he has been inner guard and is currently vice-regent. Merl is also an executive member of A. F. S.

As an active member of his social fraternity, Merle has held the position of recorder and rush chairman, in addition to his active participation in intramural sports. He is currently our house photographer and intramural manager.

Merle plans to get married late this summer and graduate next January with his B.S. in Metallurgical Engineering.

The men of Sigma Nu are proud to have Merle receive this honor as a representative of our organization.

freshman was wearing the insignia of the organization which the absent candidate represented. As far as we know this was the first and only time a freshman was ever accorded the inestimable privilege of being knighted. This young man, well he's not so young now, may still be seen walking the campus engulfed in the green cloud that is unique to the green slop. If ever you see a senior civil engineering student by the name of Lynn O. Shafer — beware.

Then there was the time in 1911, also during the knighting ceremony when a deviation from tradition occurred. Apparently St. Patrick does not practice very much restraint with his Knights. The lads are high strung and tend to get a bit carried away. In 1911 there was only one female Mining Engineer at MSM, so the Knights felt it only fitting that she receive the inglorious privilege of being the only woman in the history of St. Pat's ever to be knighted. Miss Eva Endurance Hirdler's name will certainly go down in the annals of St. Pat's Celebrations at UMR.

At one time there was a custom that only seniors had the right to grow beards, but finally the underclassmen were given the chance to raise their stubble too in preparation of St. Pat's. Another senior privilege was the kissing of the blarney stone. However, today we have come to the realization that after spending four arduous years in Rolla it is hardly necessary to go through the actual physical act of kissing the blarney stone.

Early History Traced

St. Pat's Enters Its 61st Year

In the spring of 1908 the University of Missouri extended an invitation to the School of Mines to send a delegate to Columbia to witness their ceremonies. As a result, a mass meeting was held in front of the post office, where all important questions of state were settled, and J. H. Bowles was elected delegate to the ceremonies at Columbia. The Miners, however, were not contented to let the situation stop at that. A committee consisting of G. A. Easley, '09, Clay Gregory, '10, and D. L. Forester, '11, was appointed to arrange a celebration in Rolla. Considerable difficulty was encountered, as many of the students were skeptical, and the faculty was opposed to the deal. Nevertheless, March 17, 1908, was declared a holiday by popular vote of the student body, and on the morning of the 17th, St. Pat arrived at the Grand Central Station in the personage of George Menefee, and was met by the crowd armed with shillalaghs, and wearing green sashes. St. Pat alighted from his palace car, and was escorted to his chariot, in which he rode to Norwood Hall at the head of the hastily arranged parade.

After lecturing the seniors and interpreting the marks on the Blarney Stone, he dubbed the class of '08 and Dr. L. E. Young, "Knight of the Order of St. Patrick." A band concert, hilarity, and a general resolve to continue the celebration in future years ended the day.

The following year, 1909, saw March 17th scheduled as a regular school holiday. It also marked the beginning of the features, such as the parade, which characterize the present celebration. W. M. Holmes impersonated the Patron Saint this year. The morning program was not altered, but the afternoon program had athletic sports regularly scheduled. The unscheduled hilarity which emanated from eighth street, however, did much to vary the program and add pep to the crowd. It is reported by old timers that, although the Sainted Snake Chaser himself was in Rolla, multi-colored snakes with violent contortionist powers appeared at intervals.

FIRST SHILLALAGH DAY

In 1910 Shillalagh Day was instituted by sending Freshmen into the woods to cut the necessary arms for the occasion. "Red" Forester acted as St. Patrick. He rode on a water wagon drawn by six big mules at the head of the parade, and used his customary transit to locate the Blarney Stone, after considerable anxiety had been manifested as to its whereabouts. No afternoon program had been arranged.

In 1911 the celebration took the form of those of the preceding years. W. A. Hackwood impersonated St. Pat, and had the honor of knighting Miss Eva Endurance Hirdler, the only woman mining engineer to graduate from M. S. M.

In 1912 was the first year in which the evening of the great day was used. The program for the day, with Harry H. Nolan as St. Patrick, was much the same as in former years. In the evening the Athletic Association gave an entertainment in Mechanical Hall. The new feature was noteworthy, for it was the germ of what is now the most elaborate part of the celebration.

In 1913 A. F. Truex took the part of the Patron Saint. The campus that day took on the appearance of a carnival ground. The afternoon was most enjoyably spent. In the evening the first St. Patrick's Day Masque Ball was held in Mechanical Hall. Another move had been made toward a greater St. Pats.

Frank L. Johnson officiated at the knighting ceremonies in 1914. The day was marred by a heavy downpour of rain, but by this time the spirit of the celebration had such a firm root that the ceremonies were carried out as usual.

FIRST QUEEN

The year 1915 is remembered for two reasons. First J. J. Doyle, true son of Erin, took the part of St. Pat in a way that has never before or since been equaled; and second, because this year the first Queen of St. Patrick was crowned at the grand ball. This signal honor went to Miss Helen Baysinger, of Rolla. She was not only the first queen here, but as far as can be ascertained, was the first queen of any St. Patrick's Day celebration of its kind.

In 1916 St. Pat was impersonated by J. G. (Pat) Reilly. One of the Quo Vads, J. J. Allen, had the temerity to "bum" in on the Saint's private car. In the afternoon "The Follies of 1915," a humorous dramatization of life at M. S. M., by Lucien Erkskine, were presented. The new gymnasium furnished an ideal place for the Masque Ball. Miss Mary McCrae was crowned Queen.

H. Smith Clark had a cold blustery day for his impersonation of St Pat in 1917. The morning program had to be postponed until the afternoon, and so everyone was rushed. The ball in the evening, however, ranks as one of the most brilliant ever given. Miss Olive Scott was Queen.

"The Monk"

Early History ...

FIRST LADY

On the whole, the celebration of 1918 was the most successful of any hitherto given. Maryl McCarthy ruled as St. Pat. The parade and the afternoon minstrel show were both very good, and the evening was made noteworthy by the fact that Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner, then the first lady of the state, reigned as Queen.

In 1919 the weather was ideal, and E. . (Toots) Schuman had many spectators to see him dub the seniors Knights of St. Patrick. At the ball that year the Queen's pin was introduced, and the newly crowned Queen, Miss Edna Kiel, of St. Louis, as well as her predecessors, was presented with the emblem at the end of an impressive ceremony.

Adverse weather again interfered in 1920, but the followers and admirers of St. Pat were out in large numbers to see and hear "Squeak" Needham as St. Patrick. The Parade this year was marked by the introduction of several floats tending towards the arctic. Heretofore the ridiculous had reigned supreme. In other years the Blarney Stone had been brought forth by the Civil Engineers with his transit, and by the Mining Engineers with explosives. This year an Indian magician produced it out of nothingness. Miss Nancy Love reigned as Queen of Grace and Beauty.

In 1921 J. E. Jewell took the part of St. Patrick. The celebration was elaborate in every detail. The Blarney Stone was found by a famous Irish geologist, Mr. O'Hallahan. The ball in the evening left nothing to be desired, and was ably yet gently presided over by Miss Hazel Dent, the Queen.

The class of '23, who were in charge of the 1922 celebration of the Saint's day, introduced one noteworthy feature. The "Follies" first introduced in 1916, had been on the decline, both as to quality and drawing power, for several years. Accordingly, in '22 the M. S. M. Players had the stage for the presentation of some of their amateur dramatic art. This was very well received by both the students and their guests and the substitution was repeated this year. The parade was exceptionally good, due to the superabundance of pep of the Vocates. The gymnasium had been decorated by professionals, and presented a very pleasing background for the Masque all. Miss Margaret Sally was crowned Queen by David F. Walsh as St. Pat.

The weather man had prepared a nice spring morning for March 17, 1923, but the order was misplaced and a crisp breeze welcomed St. Pat, impersonated by C. E. Stover, as the palatial car pulled into the Rolla Grand Central Station. St. Pat was escorted by his waiting motor car, and headed the parade, which marched to Parker Hall. The nighting ceremonies took place in the auditorium of Parker Hall, due to the weather. The M. S. M. Players presented "Just Jones" in the afternoon and the Masque Ball took place in the gymnasium that night. Due to the work of P. L. Blake, '24, the decorations were exceptionally good. Mrs. Helen Stover was crowned Queen by her husband, C. E. Stover. The Grand March was reviewed by the royal pair from the castle, which had been erected in one corner.

"SICK ABED"

1924 witnessed one of the most elaborate St. Pats celebrations that had been held at M. S. M. for several years. The morning of St. Pat's arrival came with a cold wet rain, which later in the day turned to sleet and snow. St. Pat, impersonated by W. S. Stack, was welcomed in true Irish style, and was conducted to Parker Hall, where the knighting of the class of '24 took place. In the afternoon a play, "Sick Abed," was presented by the M. S. M. players. The Masque Ball that evening, when St. Pat crowned Miss Eva Underwood Queen of the festivities, was up to the standards of all previous balls. The formal dance, which was held on Saturday night, wound up the celebration.

In 1925 the celebration took the form of those of preceding years. St. Pat was impersonated by Ray Kollar. The usual parade, with its many floats was eliminated this year. The knighting ceremonies took place in the auditorium of Parker Hall. In the afternoon the M. S. M. players presented "Dulcy," and the masque ball took place in the gymnasium that night. Miss Helen Underwood was crowned by Ray Kollar.

25 Years ...

The weather man had prepared another nice spring morning for March 17, 1926, but the order was misplaced, and a little rain welcomed St. Pat, impersonated by Ralph Hilpert, as the Grand Central Station. St. Pat was escorted to his waiting motor car, and headed the parade, which marched to Parker Hall. The knighting ceremonies took place in the auditorium of Parker Hall. The M. S. M. Players presented "Thirty Days" in the afternoon, and the masque ball took place in the gym that night. Miss Dorothy Keisler was crowned Queen of Love and Beauty for the 1926 St. Pats celebration. On the evening of March 19, the very formal Junior Prom was given.

JUNIOR PROM

In 1927, St. Pat, impersonated by Gerald Roberts, was greeted by a beautiful spring morning, and was conducted to Parker Hall where the nighting ceremonies took place. At the masque ball Friday evening, Miss Lorraine Love was crowned as queen of the festivities, and the weekend was topped by Saturday night's Junior Prom which proved to be the perfect end to a wonderful St. Pat's.

In 1928, St. Pat arrived in a blinding snowstorm. Undaunted by the weather, however, he gaily proceeded to Parker Hall where he once again gave his annual speech and admitted the seniors to knighthood. Friday evening's masque ball took on the atmosphere of a gay carnival in fairyland. At midnight, St. Pat, portrayed by B. L. Ballard, arrived to crown Miss Lucy Kiesler as his queen. After that everyone danced till the wee hours of the morning to the music of Irving from St. Louis.

SLATS RANDALL

In 1931 bad weather once again greeted St. Pat. With spirits undampened, however, everyone proceeded to have a really great time. A really outstanding performance was turned in by Slats Randall's orchestra, which played for both the masque ball, where Marion McKinley was crowned queen by James Offuth who took the part of St. Pat, and for Saturday night's formal ball.

The year 1932 saw St. Pat's as MSM go pretty much as it should have, very much unlike the occurrence at Mizzou that year which saw a group of law students trying to kidnap the Miners' St. Pat Queen. One of the law students even went so far as to shoot one of M. U.'s engineers in the stomach with a pistol, seriously injuring him. The Rolla Miners, however, managed to keep better track of their queen, Miss Emily McCaw, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves, both at Friday night's masquerade ball and the formal ball Saturday night.

St. Pat's of 1933 was officially opened Thursday night by a dance given by the Independents in Jackling Gymnasium. At two p. m. Friday afternoon St. Pat arrived and that evening at eleven the masque ball began to the music of Paul Sells Orchestra. Beautiful, raven-haired Miss Sybil Powell was chosen queen, and after the masque ball Friday night and Saturday night's formal ball, the curtain was rung down on another wonderful St. Pat's celebration.

1934 saw the twenty-sixth renewal of the traditional St. Patrick's festivities. Thursday night, open house dances were held by the fraternities, and Friday afternoon, under a clear sky, St. Pat, impersonated by John Cooper Settle, arrived via his traditional hand-car. At the masque ball that evening, he crowned his queen in the gym which was elaborately decorated in green and silver. The festivities were brought to a close with the formal ball Saturday night.
